

FRANCO-BRITISH COMPARISON OF ATTEMPTS TO PROVIDE SOCIAL PROTECTION FOR PLATFORM WORKERS AT THE TIME OF THE PANDEMIC: TOWARDS A NEW BALANCE BETWEEN PUBLIC AND PRIVATE ACTORS?*

ABSTRACT

A comparison of the French and English social protections granted to workers in service provision and delivery platforms to deal with the pandemic leads one to wonder about the effect of the legal adaptations proposed by France and the United Kingdom and on the distribution of roles between public authorities and private actors.

KEYWORDS: Platform Workers, Collaborative Economy, Welfare State, Social Protection, Comparative Law.

RÉSUMÉ

Une comparaison des protections sociales françaises et britanniques accordées aux travailleurs de plateformes de fourniture de services et de livraisons pour faire face à la pandémie conduit à s'interroger sur l'effet des adaptations juridiques proposées par la France et le Royaume-Uni et sur la répartition des rôles entre pouvoirs publics et acteurs privés.

MOTS CLÉS: Travailleurs de plateformes, économie collaborative, Etat providence, protection sociale, droit comparé.

* This is part of a research project launched by the MIL (Marchés, Institutions, Libertés centre) at UPEC (University Paris Est Créteil) for 2021-2024, on the issue of the social protection of platform workers seen from the angle of social citizenship. This cross-disciplinary and comparative research (3 disciplines: history, law and sociology; and 4 States: France, United Kingdom, Sweden, Portugal - as well as the EU) is funded by the French National Research Agency, the ANR (Project no. ANR-20-CE26-001-01). For more information: <https://cepassoc.hypotheses.org/>